SASANQUA

Fall and Early Winter Flowering

Here we have a beautiful shrub which is rapidly taking its place in the garden. A Sasanqua plant in full bloom is breath-taking and particularly so because it flowers when there is little else to give color. To come upon a lovely, graceful evergreen shrub covered with hundreds of blossoms in late September, October and November, is surely getting a thrill. The individual flowers are charming and varied in form and shape; some are single, some are semi-double or full double. Formal as well as informal in shape, they provide one with endless interest and a wide range of color. The informality of the plant makes it a first class subject for foundation plantings and hedges. Received the award of commendation of the Horticultural Society of New York. These fine specimens are shipped in Cloverset pots.

Without exception there has been no garden flower which has been so thoroughly improved in the past decade, nor has any flower made such gains in popularity. It is not unusual to find varieties today with blooming spikes averaging well over 30 inches with individual florets measuring up to 6 inches in diameter. In addition to the increase in size, color developments have been made, combining practically every color known to man.

Our bulbs are plump, high-crowned, guaranteed No. 1 size, and are thrip treated with DDT and thrip free.

NOTES ON GLADIOLUS CULTURE

Gladiolus can be planted in the latitude of New York City from April 15th to July 10th. If successive flowering is desired, recommend plantings at two-week intervals.

Gladiolus do best in a good garden soil with a sunny location. For largest flowers it is well to use a general purpose fertilizer before planting and again as a side dressing when the plants are 12 to 15 inches high. Plant bulbs at a depth of four to six inches.

For exhibition spikes it is necessary to provide water during periods of drought, soaking the ground to a depth of 4 to 5 inches once a week.

When cutting Gladiolus spikes, allow the two outside leaves to remain on the plant to provide food for next year's bulbs.

Gladiolus have only one serious pest, thrips. Bulbs, when you get them from us, have all been dusted with DDT, and are free of thrips. To prevent injury from this insect, we recommend spraying or dusting with a garden preparation containing at least 10% DDT. This should be done every week to 10 days.

SEEDS of HARDY FLOWERS—PERENNIALS AND BIENNIALS

HOW TO GROW THEM. Hardy plants (perennials) bloom the second year from seed and are permanent thereafter. Some of them may bloom the first year if the seed is sown very early. Among the perennials we find some of the most beautiful flowers for cutting and many of the old-fashioned sorts dear to our childhood memories. A hardy border properly planned and planted is a source of joy from early spring to late autumn; during that period it will be resplendent with color and yield an abundance of bloom for indoor decoration. The plants need little attention other than to be kept free from weeds and given an occasional top-dressing of plant food.

WHEN TO SOW. Seed may be sown in hotbed in February or March, or out-of-doors from the first days of May to mid-August. It is well to sow as early as possible, thus permitting the plants to become strong and well established before winter.

WHERE TO SOW. For most perennials a cold frame is an ideal place for starting seeds, but if you do not have one, make a seed-bed of finely sifted light soil, adding and mixing thoroughly well-decayed manure, humus, or prepared plant food. Sow the seed in shallow drills, covering $\frac{1}{8}$ inch or more, according to the size of the seed, but very fine seed should only be lightly pressed into the soil.

CARE OF SEEDS AFTER SOWING. Press down the bed with a flat board, and water gently but thoroughly with a fine spray. Do not permit the soil to become dry while the seed is in process of germination, for until the plant develops roots its life depends entirely on moisture. Nearly all failures in growing perennials may be attributed to drying in the seed-bed, which should be carefully watched and watered until the plants have made four to five leaves.

Max Schling's Famous Annual Garden Mixture

It is our wish that we would have sufficient space to list all of the testimonials that we have received in praise of this marvelous seed value. We have received reports from all sections of the country extolling the beauty and practical results obtained from sowing this mixture. Carefully blended to strike a perfect balance between the showy bright annuals and those of more subdued tendencies, the result provides a bold effect where required and a vista of real beauty covering large areas where it would be impossible to intensely cultivate a garden. Left to themselves, the vigorous hardy annuals in this mixture self-sow and it can be safely said that a wild garden produced from this seed will be more or less permanent.

Tips on Snapdragon Culture

Antirrhinum (Snapdragon) seed should be started in flats early in the spring. Care should be taken not to plant the seed too deeply, or to over-water. When plants are large enough to handle, they can be pricked off into 2½-inch pots and hardened in the cold frame for later transplanting.

Seeds may also be sown directly in the open soil and then thinned out, leaving seedlings about a foot apart.

Snapdragons are a hardy annual and excellent results may be obtained by fall sowing.

Open a drill 2 inches deep and drop the Beans 1 inch apart and cover. When well up, draw the soil up against the plants and cultivate frequently.
